

This is a quick overview about Bioinformatics and reproducibility for people not working in the field with some interest in the field.

Some content comes from lectures I gave during Exlir's courses on Docker and Reproducibility (Basic and Advanced) for people already working in the field.